Thanksgiving

The lines are fallen unto me in pleasant places; yea, I have a goodly heritage.
—Psalms 16:6.

We give thanks, O Lord, for the pleasant places, the goodly heritage. We are the heir to all the ages. Other men have labored and we enter into their labors. All the resources of industry, of science, of art, of literature, are at our command.

We give thanks for the opportunities that thus have come to us; the opportunities to have happy homes illumined with friendship and love, suffused with the myriad sides of culture; the opportunities to do useful work, to contribute our part to the complex fabric of civilization, to serve the present age.

We give thanks for the great adventure of living, with all its risks of joy and sorrow. If happiness be our portion, may we accept it with joyous hearts; if sorrow, may we find strength to fulfill our obligation with courage, knowing that, in so doing, happiness will break through.

Indoor Golf

Pleasureland Opens Up This Week for Business

Pleasureland, the first commercial indoor golf course in Norway is fast approaching the opening day. Carpenters have remodeled the former armory to meet the requirements of J. Harold Neal of South Paris, who is installing a fifteen hole set he built especially for this particular course.

This playground is strictly a community project. All the workmen are Norway men; all materials and decorations will be purchased of local dealers. Outside bids were not considered by manager Herbert Butler, so that the Twin Towns might have the benefit of the good sums expended to make this enterprise one of the most popular and finest in Oxford County.

Special prizes in gold will be given for the lowest score on the opening day. Children are eligible for this prize and will be allowed to play Saturdays from 8 to 12 a. m., at reduced rates. Special weekly prizes will be hung up for the lowest scores and other inducements offered to promote keen competition and encourage skill in making the unique hazards and overcoming unusual obstacles.

Reception For New Pastor

Held Tuesday Evening at the Congregational Church

Rev. Christian Groezinger and Mrs Groezinger and daughter, Kathryn, were given a reception Tuesday evening at the Second Congregational Church by the members of the parish. The vestry was made homelike and attractive with rugs, easy chairs and lamps. Evergreen and chrysanthemums were used for decorations. In the receiving line were the pastor, his wife and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene N. Swett, Mrs. Herman L. Horne, Mr. and Mrs. Leon M. Longley, Mr. and Mrs Frank McAllister and Philip F. Stone. Light refreshments were served.

After the reception, a short program was enjoyed with D. Arthur W. Easton as master of ceremonies. Miss Elizabeth Klain, piano; Miss Marian Haskell, violin, and Miss Rand, cello, played several selections and also played during the reception; Mrs. Forrest Longley played a piano selections; Mrs. Esther Tower Anderson gave several readings; Mrs. Lillian Michie, vocal selections, and a duet was played by Miss Josephine Rand, cello, and Miss Ada Reed, piano. Rev. Rensel H. Colby and Rev. C. L Kinney brought greetings from the South Paris churches.

There was a good representation from all the churches and greetings were given the new pastor and his family. An older daughter, Miss Marion, a student at Smith College, was unable to be present.

Mrs. Hobbs, Portland, Me.
Miss Hobbs, Portland, Me.
Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Stiles, Portland, Me.
E. T. Harrigan, Boston, Mass.

Mrs. C. W. Chick had a narrow escape Thursday, when after lighting her oil stove, she turned away an instant, and looking around, the stove was a mass of flame. Being alone, she dragged it out through two rooms, and a hall, and tipped it off the piazza onto the ground. She was burned but little and no damage, except from smoke.

Mrs. Harry M. Jackson received three nice R. I. Red cockerels last week, a present from her son, Alpheus Jackson, who is a student in the Agricultural Department at the University of Maine at Orono. These cockerels are from the pen of birds that won first prize in the egg laying contest at Storrs in 1929 and Mrs. Jackson will use them to head the pens of her best laying pullets for her spring hatching eggs and hopes for good results in next year's layers. Mrs. Jackson is striving for improvement in her flock each year and has an extra nice strain of R. I. Reds.

Community Christmas

Needs Great This Year—Many Articles Can Be Put To Good Use

Community Christmas is calling this year for contributions in everything that will give some comfort to those who need assistance in the way of clothing, groceries, vegetables, and the necessaries of life. With the many, many calls during the summer and fall, the funds have been all used, as has every article of clothing, and there is great need at this time for generous response. Money and checks should be sent to Mrs. Minola Aldrich, Beal Street. Other contributions may be carried to the E. N. Swett Shoe Company basement the week before Christmas. In the meantime, let us be collecting any clothing we can spare, books and toys for the children, vegetables, canned goods, apples, etc.

Mrs. Ernest C. Murch

Mrs. Maude Evangeline Murch, wife of Ernest C. Murch of Norway, passed away at the Central Maine General Hospital at 9 o'clock Tuesday evening, Nov. 25 She was unable to survive a surgical operation performed for ulcers of the stomach. Mrs. Murch had been in failing health for some weeks and entered the hospital last Saturday.

She was born in Norway, August 31, 1873, the daughter of Winfield Scott and Frances R. Partridge. She was educated in the public schools and Norway High School, after which she worked as compositor in the Norway Advertiser Office for several years.

On September 1, 1905, she became the wife of Ernest C. Murch, foreman in the Advertiser Office, and they have always resided in Norway. Last September they observed their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary with a family gathering in the home.

Mrs. Murch was active in the Universalist Church and president of the Ladies' Circle. She was a home body and never joined any fraternal orders.

Besides her husband, she leaves two sons, Clayton F. Murch and Stanley P Murch, both employed in the A. & P. Store. Two brothers and two sisters survive her: Grace Winnifred Barron, Norway; Victor L. Partridge, Norway; Evelyn King of Providence, R. I., and Donald B. Partridge of Norway.

Services will be held from Spiller's Funeral Home, Friday, at 2 p. m.

CHRISTMAS MAILING

Mailing Christmas packages early is urged by the postal department and attention is called to a vast number of holiday cards and letters that reach the dead letter service. This is due largely to incorrect addresses and failure to place return addresses on the envelope.

The postal bulletin says "Thousands of the letters are found to contain gifts of money, but comparatively few contain sufficient information to enable their return to the mailers."

All matter should be securely wrapped with strong paper and heavy twine Use special delivery stamps for perishable goods and mark "Perishable" on the package.

FREE COOKING SCHOOL

Demonstration latest recipes and short cuts in cooking. Under the direction of Mrs. J. W. Albiston, Auburn, former teacher of cookery in Boston Public Schools, and Mrs. A. L. Richan, Auburn, former twin counties home demonstration agent. The home makers of Norway and South Paris will have an opportunity to see some of the latest recipes prepared and cooked at the free cooking school to be held in South Paris, Dec. 3, at Odd Fellows' Hall, and at the American Legion Hall, Norway, Dec. 4th.

Samples will be distributed to those attending and in addition all foods cooked at the school will be given away with the glass cooking dishes used, to someone in the audience.

Tickets for this cooking school are free and can be obtained at the hall.

Walter L. Getchell, former real estate dealer, pleaded guilty in the Superior Court last week to cheating by false pretenses, was sentenced by Judge Chapman to three months in the county jail.

Mr. and Mrs. William K. Bartlett of Norway have two grandsons, who are named for their father, grandfather and great grandfather, Clarence Llewellyn Emerson, Jr., of Naples and Fred William Bartlett, Jr., of Norway. They also were both born on the 13th of the month.

A cast of ten has been selected to produce the "Square Crooks" under the direction of W. J. Flanders for Lake Temple Pythian Sisters. This is a mystery story in three acts and a Broadway production. Clear cut comedy is in every line to blend with the mystery that clings to the story until the surprise climax. It is expected that the drama will be presented early in January.

Mrs. Mary Andews and Mrs. Caroline Fisher assisted Mrs. Nettie Nevers in entertaining the Past Matrons' Association of Oxford Chapter, O. E. S., Thursday evening, at the home of Mrs. Nettie Nevers. A fine supper was served and a pleasant social evening followed. Those present were Mrs. Inez Hills, Mrs. Alice Smith, Mrs. Estelle Carroll, Mrs. Eva Kimball, Mrs. Lucretia Burgess, Mrs. Pauline McCormack, Miss Marion Welch, Mrs. Helen Bickford, Mrs. Geneva Partridge. Worthy Matron of the Chapter, Mrs. Minnie Cole and Mrs. Lillian Michie were guests.

One of Norway's Beauty Spots

Ordway's Grove as Recalled by One of The Late Oldest Inhabitants

The following historical sketch of the Ordway Pines was told the writer, Hortense Gates, by Mrs. Clara (Ames) Hayden during the last years of her long life:

Still the great Pines stand, a century and a half old, the same kingly trees that welcomed the early pioneers, when they came, soon after the Revolution, to make their homes in these vast trackless forests that covered all the country around. Here the big lake offered them sustenance, the rich soil, too, promised them food, and there was untold wealth to be won from the limitless growth of timber—pines and hardwoods.

All this could be theirs had they the courage and fortitude to combat the well nigh unconquerable forces of nature. They had fought and won America's freedom, surely these men could fight and win homes for themselves and families. And they did fight and they DID win, for today their children and children's children are enjoying many pleasant, prosperous homes in the village that lies at the foot of Lake Pennesseewassee

Samuel Ames built the first frame house in Norway, near the mill by the lake outlet, where he was miller, and Ordway Grove, owned by him, was then known as Ames Woods. When settlers passed through the village on their way to clearings beyond, they followed the trail to Ames Point above the mill, and crossed by boat to the west shore.

Mr. Ames' granddaughter, Mrs. Clara (Ames) Hayden, born Jan. 23, 1829, who lived all her last years on Pleasant St., opposite the grove, loved to recall Norway's earlier days. How her grandfather loved his pine woods! How proud he was of those giant Pines and always kept them free from all underbrush. Even then, in those days of unbounded wood growth, the Ames Pines were especially attractive. Children loved to play there then, as now, and loved and revered the great trees that could talk to them and understand.

"My Lords of the Forest," the little Clara used to call them, standing with outstretched hands and gazing up, up into their green, mysterious tops so far above. Wonderful lessons they teach to hearts that desire to learn—"Always strive for the highest," they whisper, "and be patient, steadfast and strong" The strength of the Pines indeed seems to have filled the life of the child who grew up among them, for she lived to the age of ninety and more years, a sweet little woman of wonderful, unclouded mind and perfect health. Her last days were very happy in the care of her daughter, named for her, Mrs. Clara Hayden Drake.

Coming from the northern wilderness to the clearings, Indians used to ask to camp in the grove for the night, and Mr. Ames would give them permission to stay in the hardwood shelter, but no fires could be built near his beloved pines. The Red Men came to his house, one by one, for a skillet, a few slices of bacon, a bit of bread, etc., till they had acquired quite a feast for their camp, and Mrs. Hayden said that never did her father or grandfather refuse them anything.

Sept. 9, 1886, centennial exercises of the settlement of Norway were held beneath these pines. There were addresses, poems and orations given by honored citizens of that day—Arthur E. Denison, Anna F. Hayden, Judge Wm Wirt Virgin and others.

George Ordway bought the grove from the Ames heirs, and Mrs. Hayden herself changed the name to Ordway Grove. Though several others have held possession from time to time, this name has remained as yet unchanged. Henry Bearce for many years owned the Ordway estate, which at his death passed into the hands of Frank A. Danforth, at the beginning of the 20th century. Then it was for the first time in all their history that the lives of those great, beautiful pines were threatened. Indeed some of them did fall beneath the axe, much to the sorrow of Mrs. Hayden, who was powerless to save them. But the spirit of the stricken pines cried out their desire to live, and over the miles to far away New York their S. O. S. call was sent.

Norway was Don Seitz's boyhood home. He too, had known and loved those woods by the lake shore. From the great city he was winning honor and success, but in the midst of all business cares, his heart heard the call of the pines, and he hastened to purchase the entire grove, thus rescuing the Pine Kings from further destruction.

Later Mr. Seitz offered Ordway Grove at a nominal sum to Norway for a public park, and interested people subscribed various amounts. It was planned once to extend an electric car line to form a loop through Ordway's by the lake shore, but the auto crowded out electric service and the plan of a park passed into the future. For years no shooting was allowed within the grove limits, and Ordway was a haven to all wild life, a playground for the little ones, and a retreat to all seeking brief rest and quiet walks within its haunts.

School children have chosen Ordway Grove for Hiawatha pageants, and no better setting could be found so near the village for this beautiful Indian legend.

Norway has been grateful for the preservation of these pine trees, and daily some individual heart has silently thanked Mr. Seitz for all it has meant to have a grove that year after year, winter, spring, summer and fall, gives pleasure untold to "those who care."

And I know the Pines have been grateful, too.

But Mr. Seitz can befriend them no more, and again the Trees are fated to fall unless some Master Mind can form a practical plan to save them.

Poor doomed Pines!
Will not someone hear?

Funds Not Available for Grove

Negotiations to save Ordway Grove from the ax are at a standstill. V. Akers who has given much time to raising a fund of $1500 for securing the stand of trees and real estate, has not been able to raise the amount. It is understood the owner, Ernest Hutchins, is in a hurry to clear the lot before deep snow and has a customer for the lumber.

A miracle may save the grove, but at present it seems probable that choppers will soon do their execution.

CAST OF "JACK O' HEARTS"

"Jack O' Hearts" will be the second of two plays the Universalist Players will present on December 11, the second day of the Universalist Church Fair.

Clara Adkins, who will play the part of Polly Hart, will be remembered as Kay in "Oh Kay." Osmond Towne, who is Winthrop Hart in the play, will be remembered as the sheriff in "Professor Pep" produced by seniors of the high school. Eleanor Rich is Mary, the expected guest and Glenn McIntire, who has been in a great many of the plays, produced locally, will be seen as John Ames, a young minister Stanley Murch, also well known to local audiences, has the role of Jack Botsford. Caroline Downing is Celeste, the maid. Rev. Conard B. Rheiner has a small bit.

This cast takes a good plot with funny situations in abundance, good dialogue, witty and bright, and makes a comedy drama that will be remembered by all who see it. Both this play and "The Games of Chess" are directed by Rev. Conard B. Rheiner.

"A THIEF IN THE NIGHT"

Norway Opera House will be the scene of a delightful evening of novel entertainment when the local American Legion Auxiliary sponsors the three act comedy drama, "A Thief in the Night," Friday, Dec. 5th. Fortunate in securing a cast of unusual amateur talent, interpreting a comedy of rare merit, will alone give an interesting evening. There will be no long waits between acts because "Jake" Andrews will be there. "Jake" Jingle, Joy and Joshing are one. He is introducing for the first time since a very little tot a young artist, now a young lady, who is quite capable of entertaining alone but on this occasion is teamed with him. Had you guessed it was Margaret, his daughter? A chip of the old block, the young lady will be there to hold up her end of the entertainers de luxe, Andrews and Andrews.

An instrumental trio composed of the Misses Elizabeth Klain, piano; Marion Haskell, violin, and Josephine Rand, cello will begin a concert at promptly eight o'clock, featuring selections from Victor Herbert's light operas, a type of music very pleasing to everyone.

Tickets checked at Stone's Drug Store when the store opens, Monday morning, December 1st.

Mrs. Homer R. Luck was hostess, Thursday, for the Ninovus Club. At one o'clock, a most attractive luncheon was enjoyed and the afternoon devoted to bridge with two tables filled.

Aaron Yeaton of Milton, Mass., and brother, Steven Yeaton and son of Beverly, Mass., were at their sister's, Mrs. Harry Spiller's, over the week end to visit their mother, Mrs. Ella Yeaton, who is seriously ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Millard Lyseth of Auburn spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Eliot A. Fuller. Mr. and Mrs Lyseth are former residents of Norway and enjoy their visits here with friends.

Harry V. Cole, Merrill Emery, George Stevens of Norway and Bob Hicks of South Paris are at the camp in Hastings, owned by Mr. Cole and Mrs. Emery. Word was received Friday that George Stevens had shot a 200 lb. buck

The cream and blue front on the former Richardson Market calls attention to the new Independent Grocers' Association store, under the management of Clifford H. Davis. The store opened Wednesday, having been painted and changed to meet the needs of the trade.

Norway Churches

Baptist

We are continuing the special meetings conducted by Rev. T. P Fletcher, every night at 7:30. The closing meeting of the two weeks series will be Sunday night at 7.

Sunday morning service as usual with Bro. Fletcher as preacher at 10:45.

Bible School at 12.

Congregational

The Christian Endeavor held its weekly meeting, Sunday evening at 6 o'clock. Violet Upton led the worship service and Mr. Groezinger led the topic that was discussed. The name of this topic was "What I am Thankful For". After the discussion a brief business meeting was held. The society nominated a committee to decide on material for a drama. Jonathan Bartlett was appointed chairman. Bernice Sharon, Gwendolyn Bicknell, Wilfred Conary and Ernest Moores were elected as assistants. After the business meeting refreshments were served.

The pastor will preach the second sermon in the series entitled "Program of Jesus" Sunday service commences at 11 a. m. Sunday school at 10 o'clock. Christian Endeavor in the evening at 6 o'clock with Rev. Ralph Brandon, the leader.

Universalist

Morning worship at 10.00 a. m.: Rev. Conard B Rheiner, the pastor, will preach on "Death Takes a Holiday." The sermon will deal with a play of the same name, which was one of the most successful productions of the past year. The plot is unusual and Mr. Rheiner will draw certain lessons after he has told the story.

The Sunday school will convene at 11.10 a. m.

The Senior Y. P. C. U. will meet at 6 p. m. Mrs Adeline Klain will lead the discussion on the subject: "Is Competition Beneficial?"

The Junior Y. P. C. U. will meet on Friday of this week (November 28) at the regular hour, 4 o'clock.

The officers and teachers of the Sunday school will meet with Mrs. Harold Holt, on Thursday evening, December 4, to conduct business relating to the Christmas Party and Christmas Pageant. There will be a supper preceding the business session.

At the meeting of the Senior Y. P. C. U last Sunday, at which members of the Union at the West Paris Universalist Church were guests, Rev. Conard B. Rheiner spoke on "The Pulse of Life." After a short discussion of the subject, Robert Goodwin presided at a meeting of the Oxford County Association of Universalist Young People. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Earl Pierce, Norway.
Vice Pres.—Geraldine Crawford, West Paris.
Sec.-Treas.—Eloise Scribner, West Paris.
Member-at-Large—Francis Hutchins, Norway.

A meeting of the Parish Committee will be held at the home of Mrs. Estelle Carroll, Beal Street, Monday evening, Dec. 1, at 7:15 to decide matters of importance.

The decayed remains of the steamer Pennesseewassee have been removed from the lake shore. Not one thing is left but a memory of a craft, once the pride of Capt. Edmund Ames and Norway citizens.

The members of the Jolly Club were entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. L. M. Carroll, who served luncheon at one o'clock, after which bridge was in order with four tables in play.

BRYANT POND

Week End Guests in Town—Drama a Success—Funeral Services for Gilman Whitman.

The Parent-Teachers' meeting was held Thursday night. After a business meeting, there were exercises given by the first grade in the primary room. Donald and Maxine Clifford, Samuel Redman, Robert Vittum, Roy Morgan and William Forbes. Miss Melva Greely, teacher, also a piano solo by Miss Barbara Cole, with encore.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Allen are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, Robert Edward.

Mrs. Walter Davis and daughter, Lois, of North Conway, N. H., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Davis.

Gordon Farnum of Berlin, N. H. visited his parents over the week end.

Miss Lena Felt of Auburn was in town over the week end.

The drama "The Road Back" given for the benefit of the Baptist Church, last Saturday night, was a great success. The hall was crowded. People coming from South Paris, Milton, Greenwood and other places. The drama was very good and each part well taken. Mrs. Owen Davis of Locke's Mills won the quilt. The orchestra was: George Davis, Murray Ring, Herman Fuller and daughter, Maxine. Misses Alice Andrews and Clara Whitman sold popcorn; soft drinks were sold. Mrs. Gertrude Redman gave a solo, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dudley gave a duet, Mrs. Abner Mann and Harriett Abbott were accompanists. Over sixty dollars was cleared. A free dance followed the drama.

The funeral of Gilman A. Whitman was held at the Universalist Church last Friday afternoon at one, and burial was in the Whitman cemetery. The floral tribute was very abundant and beautiful. His four children were present. Mrs. Claire Hathaway and son, Kenneth, of Boston, Mass., G. Bertrand Whitman of Portsmouth, N. H., Mrs. Fannie Ross of Rumford and Mrs. Genevieve Walker of Harrison and another grandson, Rupert Hathaway, and family, of Bryant Pond, also other relatives from away. The American Legion Ladies' Auxiliary and Daughters of Veterans attended in a body. A minister from Rumford preached.

The drama given by local talent on the evening of November 22 in the Grange Hall, for benefit of the Baptist Church, was a splendid success in every way. Our townspeople appreciate the help Mrs. Redman gives in the way of music and in every way she can in all educational public affairs. The drama was up to the minute insomuch as it represented conditions of the present time, showing that because the father had reached the half century mark, all roads leading to a livelihood were closed against him.

His wife, a woman who cared only for movies and cheap magazines, had no sympathy for him, casting all blame on him for the dire condition of their home and her verbal jibes and outbursts toward him were like the sting of a wasp. Those two characters were taken by Charlie Clifford and Mrs. Austin, both characters were well presented, and made life-like.

Miss Greely acted her part to perfection. Mrs. Davis showed talent in the way she handled her part, which was of a serious nature and difficult to act. Harris Hathaway always carries his part as it should be, whatever condition of life it is supposed to represent. Lester Felt represented a fine type of manhood on the stage as he does in real life. Mrs. Hathaway and Matthew Green carried out their more dignified parts splendidly.

All felt sorry that Gene allowed himself to get mixed up in such a tangle and we had grave doubts if the trip to the wood shed with his Dad would have changed his career, owing to the view he took of life. Wasn't there some realism in Jay's part?

Verna Swan, the gossipy neighbor, proved pretty hard to squelch. The thirst for gossip was so inherent in her nature that ordering her out of the house or closing the door in her face only served to make her more curious. Credit is due Mrs. Arthur Besse for the quilt she gave, for which a goodly sum was realized. Like Harry Lauder, the love of domesticity is deep seated in our nature. Therefore, a domestic play appeals to us, as does the spoken drama and most especially home talent.

The women of Woodstock Farm Bureau held a special meeting at the Grange Hall November 29th, on Stenciling. There were twenty-two present. A square meal for health was served at noon by the following dinner committee: Mrs. Fannie Howe, Mrs. Mildred Buck and Mrs. Elsie Cole. The menu was scalloped fish or eggs, vegetable salads, apple pie, cheese, and coffee. The next meeting will be December 4, subject, Christmas Candies. There will be a Christmas tree and everyone is requested to bring a present, not to exceed ten cents.

OXFORD—FORE STREET

News from Mrs. Harris—Callers at Mrs. Cummings'.

Ai Twitchell went to Lewiston, Tuesday, with David Staples of Welchville.

Wealthy Cox Harris, now of Dedham, Mass., writes to her friend, Flora Cummings, that she read in the Advertiser of her having so many flies. That the flies must have migrated like birds do and rested a while in their flight at Dedham, as she had plenty. Mrs. Harris, who has been poorly of late, wrote that she was better and able to work several hours a day. The Advertiser is next to letters of friends to her, she states, and she eagerly looks for items where people she knows live.

Ai and Oscar Twitchell sawed, by machine, "Mike" Reynold's winter's wood, this week.

Flora Cummings visited several of her friends in Norway, Wednesday. Chapter XXV
Hunting Incidents

When young Whiting and Tom arrived at the camp, Sam had just completed the skinning of a coon. It was the animal treed by the dog. "I shot him," shouted Jim. "but who shot the young bear?"

"I did," answered Victor.

"Gee, ain't that great? I shot a coon and you have shot a bear. Gosh, ain't that going some for us for the first day's camping out?"

"It will do for us little fellows, I guess. Tom let me shoot the coon. Then Sam let you shoot the coon. And they will probably do the shooting for gama themselves," remarked Victor.

This speech somewhat damped the ardor. While this talk was going on Charley arrived with a brace of partridges, which he had shot and they were added upon a peg in the storehouse.

Sam asked Tom and Charley to prepare the supper while he skinned the coon. The two youngsters watched Sam with interest. When the skin had been removed from the carcass, he cut off slices from the ham, which, when treat he had caught and dressed, the boys fry for supper. It was very appetizing repast.

With the supper eaten, dishes washed and put away and a roaring fire burning in the open fireplace, Sam sat down in his great arm chair with his feet stretched out towards the fire and at his side—and at intervals while at his pipe, he told of some of his thrilling incidents in his hunting life. All listened with rapt attention, especially Jim, who had never hunted in so wonderful in all his life.

Sam said he had hunted for "er nigh goin' on twenty years" and that on account of its inaccessibility and difficulty of getting the carcasses of the animals, which were shot, out of the elements, very few hunters ever went in and not many knew just how to get in and out easily—in consequence of which he was literally lord of the manor. The lumbermen and capitalists knew the value of the worth of the lot that they were getting on two occasions advertising for sale, found that no one cared to purchase it.

This was great news for Tom, who without questioning Sam or appearing to take any interest in the matter, had obtained just the information he desired.

Sam's pipe went out and he, tired of his exploits at last came to a full stop, betokening bed-time, when all sought their banks and were soon asleep.

Early the next morning, all were astir—Sam with Jim and Victor after fishing and Tom and Charley to start the fire, get the water and begin making preparations for breakfast. The air was crisp and bracing. There had been a frost during the night and Sam had noted, while getting the fishing rods, the tracks of some wild animal that had eaten the intestines of the cub and coon which had been cast aside when skinning these animals the day before. He said nothing to the youngsters, however, as he did not want them to pester him with their questions about it during the day. They caught a good supply of trout which, with slices of coon steak, well cooked and browned, furnished the basis of a breakfast that was eaten with great relish. The left-over scraps as usual, fell to Bose's share.

The day was to be devoted to hunting and fishing, Sam with his dog and Charley went off on a deer hunt, while Tom, with Victor and Jim, went to the upper pond, pickerel fishing, where they found a raft made by Sam, and a pole by which to move it around in the water. Tom regulated the raft and allowed the youngsters to do the fishing. Under his instructions they had great luck and caught about half a dozen large pickerel apiece. Having taken all the fish that they could comfortably carry, they returned to camp in time for dinner. Sam and Charley had failed to bag any game. Tom told them that he had seen fresh deer tracks at the upper pond where these creatures had come to drink. Sam and Charley had not gone into that section of the tract, but Sam said that they would go there the next day and see whether they could run across any deer. In the afternoon, all went off upon the ridge, over which they had entered the lot the day before,—Sam declaring that it was a better section for small game than on the low land, and so it proved, for that day, at least. Charley won the first honors by a lucky shot at a rabbit on the jump, causing Sam to him to get away from the dog, and Tom brought down a half grown cub, which the dog had treed. The sport was continued through the rest of the day with great success. Four partridges and two rabbits more were secured. Jim shot an owl while Sam's assistance and Victor a groundhog with Tom's. The game was gathered in and carried to camp. Sam said he had a use for the ground hog and owl and they were taken along with the rest of the game.

The partridges and rabbits were put away in the storehouse. The [illegible] was dressed and his skin and carcass stored. This being done, Sam took the ground hog, the offal of the cub and coon with the dead owl, to a place within easy rifle shot from the storehouse. Then, driving down a crotched stick into the ground and leaving the top part of it about three feet high, he tied the woodchuck, owl, and the entrails of the cub between the forks of the stick. The curiosity of the youngsters, who had been intently watching operations, were by this time greatly excited and Jim exclaimed:

"What, Mr. Sam, are you doing all that for?" and he answered that a wildcat or some such animal might come around in the night, to find something to eat, and if he did, he was likely to get shot.

Jim: "Gee, Mr. Sam, are you going to watch for him?"

Sam: "Sartin, kiddy. I see his tracks this mornin' before ther sun melted ther frost. He devoured ther innards uv ther coon an' cub I skinned an' he'll be 'round agin, tu nite as sure as preachin'."

Jim: "Gosh, I'd like to be there, Mr. Sam, and see you shoot him. Wouldn't you, Victor?"

Victor: "Sure I would, Jim; why can't we, Sam?"

Sam: "I'll see kiddies, by the time we go tu bed, what about it."

When supper had been eaten, the evening passed much as the previous one had been—Sam's stock of stories had not by any means been exhausted, but the youngsters' excitement over the expected appearance in the night of the wildcat, had overshadowed their interest in his hunting exploits and when bedtime approached it was at its highest pitch and Jim exclaimed: "Are you going, Mr. Sam, to let Victor and me see you shoot the wild cat?"

"I think I will, kiddy, if you two won't make any noise tu scare away ther varmint in case he shows up," said Sam. "Tom kin take care uv Victor, an' Charley uv you." This was assented to. After all had taken to their bunks as might well be expected, it was some time before Jim and Victor were asleep, but tired with the day's tramping, at last physical exhaustion overcame the excitement of mind and they fell into a profound slumber.

Sam awoke about midnight and looking out of the window, he saw that his baiting had not been touched. The moon had nearly set and there was just about light enough in the clearing to distinguish objects. He found that Tom and Charley had awakened also and he told them to see to it that no noise was made inside the camp and that all kept away from the windows. Then taking his rifle, he quietly went to the woodshed. Here he had provided a seat behind some pieces of lumber, over which he laid his rifle, with its hammer cocked, and in line with the carcass of the woodchuck. Over his shoulders he had thrown a wolf robe and was very comfortable, though the air was cool and frosty.

Some half hour passed but there was no indications of any prowling wild beast near. Another half hour went by and still no signs of the expected visitor. Sam's nerves were still, but inside the camp the interest of Jim and Victor, who had been out of their bunks for some time, was so great that they could scarcely be kept quiet.

At last when the boys had about given up the idea of seeing any wildcat, a long, lank animal, with tail nearly the length of its body and curled up at its end, was observed by Sam, stealthily moving towards the bait. The animal was also seen from the inside of the camp, and excitement was at its highest pitch. Charley had hold of Jim to keep him quiet and Tom had Victor under control. It was a very trying time for both of the youngsters.

Reaching the bait, the powerful beast sniffed once or twice, then raising itself on its hind legs and putting its paws upon the carcass of the groundhog, it began to tear it from the crotched stick, with its teeth, when the sharp report of Sam's rifle rang out upon the night air. A great roar from the wounded beast followed as it leaped up several feet and fell to the ground, where it lay lashing its tail and quivering in every limb. The boys rushed to the door with Jim ahead, who let out a big shout exclaiming: "Oh, Mr. Sam! You did it, didn't you? I knew you would."

"Don't go nigh ther critter, kiddy. He's not dead yet," warned Sam as he proceeded to reload his rifle. But it wasn't necessary to fire another bullet into the beast. The switch of its tail became more and more feeble and soon ceased altogether.

"Now, kiddy," ejaculated Sam, "We kin examin' ther critter. 'Tis one uv ther biggest catamounts I ever see."

Jim: "Gosh, Mr. Sam, ain't he a monster? Lucky you hit him just right in the head, or he would have eaten a piece out of you before you could load up again."

Sam: "Sartin, kiddy. It won't du to tackle a catamount an' miss. I'd ben lookin' fer ther critter fer sum time, but he kep' out uv my way. Howsomever, I've got him at last, an' I tell yer boys, 'tis a big satisfaction."

Charley: "I'll pay twenty-five dollars for him, Sam, to stuff and set up in the village. What do you say?"

Sam: "Now! Now, Cap'n, 'spose yer mean well, but Sam ain't bilt that er way. Ef yer hez eny use fer ther critter, ye kin hev 'im an' welcome, and when I go to town I'll see 'im ef ye set 'im up."

Charley: "All right, Sam, you won't lose anything, I can tell you, but many thanks just the same. Tom and I will have him mounted in front of our office to remember you by, won't we, Tom?"

"Yes indeed, Charley," replied Tom. "And we will have other things to remember him by as long as we live."

"Good boys!" exclaimed Sam. "They ain't raisin' menny such chaps 'round here, now-a-days, I guess."

It was late that night when all took to their bunks again and the sun had been up several hours when the boys awoke. After they had dressed, they found that Sam had skinned the catamount, salted its pelt to preserve its freshness, and put it away in the storehouse.

A real old fashioned Merry Christmas

Isn't going to be a financial strain for those who plan to do their gift shopping at P. M. & B.

because our PRICES are the LOWEST in years for gifts of traditional P. M. & B. quality, distinction, individuality and charm

And in addition to lower prices, many other gift buying advantages center about this store—standing out once again as Christmas Shopping Headquarters for Portland and all Maine.

THERE'S the advantage of making your selections from all that there is to be seen. Our gift stocks are the most extensive and most varied in Maine

THERE'S the advantage of wonderfully complete assortments for every one on your Christmas list at the particular prices you wish to pay

THERE'S the thrill of finding so much that is entirely new, unusual and pleasing and so different to the ordinary run of gift suggestions

THERE'S the advantage of the P. M. & B. name which has come to mean as much on a Christmas gift as the word "Sterling" does on silver

You can follow the promptings of your heart and remember the children, loved ones, relatives and friends most liberally. Yet your expenditure will be most moderate if you gift-shop at P. M. & B.

Santa Claus will again make his home in this store

The day and hour of his arrival with his real live reindeer team will be announced in the Portland papers and by radio soon.

Santa Claus has been making us his headquarters ever since we became established in 1906, distinguishing us as the original Santa Claus store. Santa drives his real live reindeer team right to the door of the store.

We feel that in this he has been most good to us and to the children for we know of no other place in the whole wide world where he arrives in this manner.

While we can't improve on Santa, Santa himself keeps abreast of modern developments—and we will hear from him by radio soon.

Christmas and all that it stands for is again in evidence all through the Store!

An atmosphere of Christmas jollity and fun, of thrills and romance reigns supreme. The Spirit of Cordiality and Hospitality is in evidence on every hand. Friendly smiles greet you. You are in a great big, wonderful fairyland as soon as you step inside our doors. Everything that's worth while in gifts is here to make your Holiday shopping a glorious adventure. Distinctive boxes and folders enhance the attractiveness of your gifts. Helpful services relieve you of many shopping details. And you often pay less for P. M. & B. gifts than for more commonplace things elsewhere. We are never knowingly undersold.

Our gift stocks are wonderfully complete in every detail. The store is filled to overflowing with gifts from every corner of the world—gifts new this year—gifts as traditional as Christmas itself—frivolous gifts—practical gifts—luxury gifts—gifts carefully planned for every member of the family; for relatives and friends—gifts that will be prized and remembered long after Christmas, whether they be little remembrances or gifts of the most sumptuous kind. Never were we so well prepared to solve the simplest or most difficult gift problems; never were there more brilliant gifts in all P. M. & B. history. To confine your gift shopping here is to enjoy the merriest of Christmases and the lowest prices in years.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

No friend we love can ever die;
The outward form but disappears;
I know that all my friends are nigh
Whenever I am moved to tears.
And when my strength and hope are gone,
The friends, no more, that once I knew
Return to cheer and urge me on
Just as they always used to do.

Be it resolved: That in the passing of Sister Edith M. Farrington from this earthly life into a fuller and freer Spiritual life Sabattos Rebekah Lodge has lost a member who always exemplified in her daily life the Cardinal principles of Rebekah Odd Fellowship.

While we reflect on her sterling character, may we learn deep lessons of loyalty and devotion to family and friends.

May our best tribute to her be in living as she lived in Friendship, Love and Truth.

Be it further resolved that a copy of these resolutions be sent to each of the family, a copy be spread upon the records of the lodge, a copy be sent to the Norway Advertiser for publication.

Fraternally submitted,
MRS. OLIE A. STANLEY,
OLIVE KILGOUR,
JAMES C. KILGOUR, JR.,
Committee.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Whereas, our dearly beloved sister, Edith D. Farrington, has been separated from us, in the natural carrying out of benign and Divine law, therefore be it

Resolved: That Suncook Grange No. 140, of Lovell, expresses a sense of deep loss in her passing, as she was in every way worthy of our highest respect, and endearing affection.

Be it further resolved: That we firmly believe that the influence of her life of service will abide with us.

And be it further resolved: That this expression of sentiment be spread upon our records, a copy be sent to the bereaved family and one sent to the Norway Advertiser for publication and our charter be draped in mourning for thirty days.

There is no death, what seems so is transition;
This life of mortal breath, is but a suburb of the life elysian,
Whose portals we call death.
She is not dead, the one of our affection,
But gone unto that school where she no longer needs our poor protection,
And Christ himself doth rule.

OLIVE E. BARKER,
ADDIE W. KIMBALL,
RUTH K. STANFORD,
Committee on Resolutions.

Obituary

TO THE OLD TIME FRIENDS AND RELATIVES OF SARAH WOODMAN

Died in Lynn, Mass., Nov. 17th, Sarah Moors Woodman, in her 87th year. Mrs. Woodman was the daughter of the late Farbel and Eunice Stevens Moors of Otisfield, Maine.

In 1870 she was married to Edward Woodman, living a short time at Allston, Mass., then moving to Concord, N. H. At the end of four years she was left a widow, practically penniless, with two small children. The real modern, up-to-date method would have been to ask aid from the city or sell some worthless articles from house to house, serving to each purchaser not only the wares purchased, but a stirring hard luck story which might of itself bring in a few pennies or make an extra sale. This, however, seemed no part of Mrs. Woodman's plan, being an expert needle-woman, she procured work in a tailor shop and there, through long days of hard work with small pay, she actually "sewed" those children through their childhood and school days up to young manhood and womanhood. Through it all she never lost the religious faith of her childhood and was a regular church attendant up to the last. Charles Woodman, the older child, lives at 49 Hale Street, Beverly, Mass; Grace Bessom, the daughter, lives at 30 Bessom St., Lynn, Mass.

Mrs. Woodman had acquired an eight two-room apartment house at Johnson Street, Lynn; here she occupied one two-room apartment, letting the other seven.

She was taken ill Thursday night, Nov. 13th, with a heart attack. Saturday she was moved to the home of her daughter, Grace, where she seemed to be making a speedy recovery. Monday afternoon, bolstered up in bed, reading from a Farm Journal, in preparation to making her next year's flower bed, she was stricken with a paralytic shock, dying almost instantly.

I thought, as I saw her body lowered into its last resting place, your name has never been emblazened on the front page of a daily paper, neither have you been sung in song or story, but if real heroism alone counted few women of either ancient or modern times have come nearer earning a place in the hall of fame than you have.

OXFORD

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Steadman, who are moving back to their Bridgton home after living in Oxford a year, were given a farewell party, Friday evening by twenty-four neighbors and friends. An enjoyable evening was spent. Refreshments were served and the Steadmans were presented with a gift from those present.

The Fidelis Class met with Mrs. Sarah Tumpus, Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Fred Martin entertained her church school class, Friday evening at the chapel.

Geo. Hazen is in Portland visiting his daughters.

Miss Caribel Smith, nurse at the C. M. G. Hospital, is home on account of ill health.

In Rumford, Nov. 24, by Rev. Fr. Berthot, Ernest Allen and Edna Richard.

BIRTHS

In South Paris, Nov. 17, to the wife of Chas. K. Ripley, a daughter, Leona Irene.

In South Paris, Nov. 17, to the wife of Earl Cordwell, a son, Robert Allen.

In West Paris, Oct. 24, to the wife of Leslie S. Estes, a son, Donald Porter.

In West Paris, Oct. 7, to the wife of Myron Lewis Herrick, a son, Edward James.

In South Paris, Sept. 20, to the wife of Wilbur S. Downing of Norway, a daughter, Benita.

DEATHS

In Lewiston, Nov. 25, Mrs. Ernest C. Murch of Norway, aged 57 years.

In Lynn, Mass., Nov. 17, Mrs. Sarah Moors Woodman, aged 87 years, a native of Otisfield.

In Bridgton, Nov. 19, Harrison D. Littlefield, aged 89 years, 7 months and 14 days.

In Rumford, Nov. 16, Miss Ida Zanoni, aged 18 years.

In Rumford, Nov. 17, Herbert O. Gleason of East Peru, aged 67 years.

In Mexico, Nov. 14, Mrs. Vito Buccina, aged 39 years.

In Utica, N. Y., Nov. 17, Mrs. Natalie, wife of Dr. G. Douglas Clark, of Dixfield.

In Mechanic Falls, Nov. 20, Mrs. Clara, wife of Charles E. Waterman.

In Buckfield, Nov. 24, Mrs. May W., wife of John Jordan, aged 34 years.

In East Sumner, Nov. 24, Frank R. York, aged 54 years.

In Albany, Nov. 25, Mrs. Imogene, widow of Jonathan Brown, aged 81 years.

In Lewiston, Nov. 23, Carrie Agnes, wife of George R. Edison of Casco, aged 36 years.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Whereas, in the sudden death of their brother, Elmer Knight, Julian Rebekah Lodge has lost a faithful member, and in this manner express their regard and appreciation, be it

Resolved: That in this untimely passing of Brother Knight we find one more name taken from our roll and while he did not sit often in our lodge room, he, in his quiet manner, was faithfully carrying out in the home and among his neighbors, those principles of Friendship, Love and Truth for which we as an order stand.

Resolved: That while he will be missed in his home, he has left a record of faithful service and love to all with whom he dealt.

Resolved: That a copy of these Resolutions be spread upon our records, a copy sent to the family and one published in the Norway Advertiser. Our charter will also be draped for the usual time.

SARGON BENEFITS TWO IN THIS FAMILY

"My mother's health had failed her for ten years, she was terribly nervous and rundown, and her weight had dropped from 115 to 85 pounds. Sargon helped her so much that I decided to take it for ailments very similar to hers. And it has been a blessing to both of us! It has built us up so well and strong, and given us such new strength and vitality that we look and feel like different people. Mother has already gained 4 pounds and says she feels better than she has in 10 years.

MISS RINDA PALMER

"Sargon Pills are the most satisfactory laxative either of us ever used."—Miss Rinda Palmer, 51 Winter St., Sanford, Maine

Sargon may be obtained in Norway, from Ashton's Drug Store, and in Bryant Pond from Clarence E. Cole·

Thanksgiving Means HOME COMING

The family reunion is doubly pleasant if the home has equipment for service, comfort and beauty.

These week end specials will help. No better price value anywhere.

Porcelain top tables for the kitchen, 36-38 inch, $8.50.

Card Tables at $1.25. Try to duplicate this table at that price in town or outside, and see what it will cost you.

Coxwell Chairs in Jacquard, with guaranteed spring construction. This chair selling this week in Portland stores at $35.00. Buy it in Norway for $28.00. Think it over. Just what do you get for that $7.00 bonus when you send your money out of town to help pay the overhead on the larger store and stock?

For real comfort a big club chair upholstered in decorated tapestry with reverse cushion at $31.50. Same chair in city stores carries a price tag, $36.50.

Nachman Black Label, and Slumberon Mattress always in stock. Both under money back guarantee on evidence of defect.

Good curtain values at $1.95 per pair.

Another lot of boudoir lamps at $1.70 and $1.95. Bases in ivory or glass, green and rose. Exceptional value. Are you interested in floor covering? Let us measure your room, and quote a price. Inlaid linoleum $1.50 up per square yard. Few patterns at $1.00.

Heard and Seen at Advertiser Office

Callers, Tuesday, were C. W. Weaver and Leon Tebbetts of Portland. They are employed in the editorial department of the Sunday Telegram.

Myron Lord of North Waterford has placed an ad in this issue for Atwater-Kent radios. He has taken the agency and is ready to show you the radios with the new quick vision dial.

Wm. H. Farrington called in, Saturday, and had his paper changed from Center Lovell to Tangerine, Florida. Mr. Farrington and his son, John, and family, started South Monday morning, for the winter.

Nearing time to be thinking about Christmas presents—remember early in the game that the Norway Advertiser makes a fine Christmas present to send your friends and relatives. Try it and see if you don't find it so.

Sent in for Fore Street news: "I think if the christians on Fore Street would sacrifice a cup of coffee to a poor fellow, who traveling, looking for work, and being cold, stopped and explained to them that he was not a tramp and would like a cup of coffee, was turned away cold and hungry. I think that they would be far more of a christian if they had given him a cup of coffee."

T. J. Judkins showed us a curiosity Tuesday in the form of fungus growth. He found it attached to a birch tree at Snow's Falls, a huge growth—resembling a brown "tall hat", a foot in height, 8 inches in length, a foot in width and the color of mushrooms. He took it to Freeland Howe's store and put it on exhibition. He says it is the most curious freak he has ever found.

Jerome Ames, Water Street, has a one-gallon "runlet" known to be 121 years old. This is a miniature keg, 11 inches tall and 21 inches in circumference and contained New England rum in the good old days. Mr. Ames' grandfather, Noah Tobie, carried the keg slung on his back when he migrated from Topsham to Greenwood in 1809 and settled. How much older the liquor container may be is uncertain, but Mr. Ames believes it had some age before landing in Greenwood.

From one who likes good roads—"On a recent trip from West Baldwin to Norway, over route 113-210-118, I could not help but notice the improvement that has been done on this road in the past season—the new tarvia road, wire cable guard rail, also the painting of new and old guard rail, both wood and cable. This work is being done under the maintenance department of the State Highway Commission at Augusta, a great improvement and much appreciated by all."

Sent us by Mrs. O. W. Brown of Lynn, Mass., for the Thanksgiving issue of the Advertiser:

(A testimonial, composed by a helplessly crippled man a few days before his death,—reaching us through a District Nurse.)

A GREETING TO THE FLOWER MISSION
I have received for many years
In a truly Christian way,
A gift that filled my heart with joy
On each Thanksgiving Day:
(A basket filled with life's good things,
A card with words of cheer
That wished for me life's happiness
This day and through the year.
And I have never been forgotten.
For in sunshine and through storms,
I have always been remembered
On the day that Christ was born.
With a little gift of dainties
With this Message placed within,
A joyous Christmas Greeting
From Your Flower Mission Friends.
And at the joyous time of Easter,
My little gift goes not astray,
But like Our Lord it comes to brighten
Each and every Easter Day.
And when Our Lord passed by today,
He stopped to bless me on His way.
And I asked Him, what I could do,
To hold the love of friends like you,
And He answered me in His kindly way,
"Why just live Flower Mission way."

We are told how to do it: To make a better paper. It is exactly what we'd like to do. The expense, however, for the man to do it, we fear, would cause financial infantile paralysis to creep in on us. Here is what the new man is supposed to do:

"He would work up many stories which could be reprinted as booklets and folders, and add considerably in that way to the job printing business. He would see when a special event was scheduled ahead and get his stories together and maybe get a souvenir program or pamphlet printed for sale on the occasion. He should not be a man who took the copy of the correspondents and contributors and edited it. He should do as little editing as the paper could get along with, simply straighten out spelling and punctuation and only occasionally phraseology, but he should be a help to the correspondents and not be a critic or a re-writer.

When the man with a story of a church centennial or something else comes in, and wants a souvenir program or booklet, the editor should go over it carefully, suggest changes and additions here and there, ask if this or that was not wanted, and work up something of good size and worth while.

But the editor should not be the author, he should let the customer or correspondent do all of the authing; his authorship should be like what George A. Cole once told me about you writing an auction poster, which was to the effect that Sanborn didn't try to tell him what he wanted to put in the poster, but tried to put in the poster what George wanted. If the newspaper man has that attitude, he can achieve wonders with the customers or contributors."

Miss Anna Nevin of Portland spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Harry V. Cole.

The old armory building was a bee-hive of activity early in the week, putting the place in order for the "Pleasureland Indoor Golf Course."

The old wharf at Mel. Sampson's boat landing has been removed and a substantial one good for many years has been built by Ned Packard.

A. L. F. Pike, on last Saturday, said: "It was just as warm 59 years ago as it is today. I remember it, as we moved into Norway that day."

Mrs. Etta M. Davis was in West Sumner, Sunday, to visit her mother, Mrs. Lydia Wing, who will go to Rumford soon to spend the winter with her son.

Dorothy Wiles is at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ora Wiles, for Thanksgiving and the week end. She is attending a school in Lynn, Mass.

Helen Tucker of Boston, Mass., visited at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tucker, over the week end. Chester Whitten of Augusta was also a guest there.

Elizabeth Crockett Blake Tent, Daughters of Veterans, will hold regular meeting, Friday evening, at 7:30 o'clock. At this meeting there will be nomination of officers.

V. Akers, the artist, has secured three excellent photographs of Ordway Grove. A wide angle lense was used to register the height of the stately pines also a good perspective of the main part of the grove.

Giles George is still confined to the house.

The son of Clayton E. Heath is ill with scarlet fever.

Harry Judkins is spending the week in Gilead, hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Leon Kimball and daughters, Thelma and Nathalie, accompanied by the Misses Rubira and Bernice Sharon, visited Mrs. Kimball's sister, Mrs. Rose Welch, South Casco, Sunday.

The December meeting of the D. A. R. will be held with Mrs. Evis I. Cook, Beal Street, Wednesday evening, Dec 3rd. Roll call, "Christmas Thoughts." Program, "Christmas In Other Lands" by Mrs. Harriet C. Brown.

Mrs. Bertha Noyes, Mrs. Betty Jacobs and Miss Carrie Tucker went to Bryant Pond, Friday, to attend the funeral services of Gilman A. Whitman, Civil War veteran, who was an obligated member of the Norway Daughters of Union Veterans. Services were held at the Universalist church.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron Allen and daughter of Fryeburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Milliken, also Shirley Milliken and son from the Crooked River Camp made up a family party, Sunday, at the home of Mrs. Bertha Lovejoy, Cummings Place.

Tickets are going well for the 47th Thanksgiving ball to be given by Pennesseewassee Lodge, K. of P., in the Opera House, Thursday evening. An attractive order of dances for the pleasure of old and young has been arranged with Jeffrey's orchestra of Lewiston to furnish just the right kind of music.

Mrs. Merton Libby wandered from her home about 9 o'clock Saturday evening. She went into the shed and becoming confused walked to the yard, then through the fields to the Little Androscoggin River. Wading into the stream her cries for held attracted Leslie Gammon, who rescued her from the icy water and assisted her home.

Evangelistic meetings in the Baptist Church this week, conducted by Rev. T. P. Fletcher of Dudley, Mass., have been well attended and much good accomplished. The last in the series will be held Sunday night. A meeting will be held in Mothers' Club Hall, Norway Lake, at 3:30 Sunday afternoon, led by the blind evangelist and musician.

Mrs. C. B. Rheiner left the Melrose hospital, Saturday, and after convalescing at the home of her parents, will return to Norway. Miss Elsie Anderson, who has been at Augusta, arrived in Norway, Friday evening, and will make her home with Rev. and Mrs. Rheiner. She has recently been elected county nurse with headquarters at South Paris high school.

Through the efforts of Father Brady, the large chamber over the garage at the St. Catherine Catholic rectory has been finished off into an attractive room for parish gatherings. Weekly bridge is enjoyed and good fellowship is the rule. French windows add much to the appearance inside and outside, and a generous installation of lights suggests a welcome and comfortable surroundings.

The Westleighs have opened their new lunch room in their house opposite the fair grounds, to be known as the Westleigh Cottage Lunch Room. At present one long table, cross-legged style with a nicely finished red oak top, is used in the front room, made attractive with tasteful furnishings. Mrs. Florence Westleigh is considering the plan of keeping open the year round, using the basement for the summer kitchen. In this event the dining room on the fair grounds would be used only for large gatherings and county fair time.

Geo. E. Stevens brought down a ten point buck in Hastings, where a party including Merrill Emery, Robert Hicks and Harry V. Cole had headquarters in the Cole-Emery camp for four days. The hunter landed his game with a shot gun, and with the help of Robert Hicks dragged the carcass through two miles of thick growth and underbrush to camp. The buck dressed close to 200 pounds and carried almost a perfect set of antlers. George has been lucky, having secured three deer in four years, and the only hunter in the party each time to get one.

Miss Helen Richardson spent the week end in Augusta.

W. H. Young of Woodfords is visiting in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Schenk and two children of Lynn, Mass., are spending the holiday and week in town with relatives.

AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT

Educational Pictures

Announcements have been made by the Farm Bureau Office in Oxford County of a number of educational moving picture films to be shown at many of the community planning meetings next month. These films will be of outstanding interest and contain much information relative to certain farming and home economic problems in the county. Names of some of the films are as follows:

"The Hows and Whys of Spuds", giving in detail the practices followed in Aroostook County in the production of potatoes.

"Limestone for Ailing Clover", giving a practical demonstration of the use of limestone and the test of soil for acidity.

Home economics films dealing with vital problems in home life have also been secured and will also be shown during the forenoon program at these meetings.

Clover Will Tell Where Lime Has Been Used

Lime, or calcium compounds are generally used as indirect fertilizers for the purpose of bringing about changes both chemical and physical which are beneficial to most plant growth. First, they make available some insoluble forms of plant-food, especially in case of compounds containing potassium or phosphorus; second, they change into harmless forms or neutralize the injurious effects of many compounds such as acids and other tonic substances that interfere with the growth of plants; third, they "lighten" a heavy soil by flocculating the soil particles; fourth, they are an important element in the mineral constituent of leguminous plants such as clover and alfalfa.

In order to determine the amount of lime needed to correct the acidity for a given soil it is necessary to make a test for degree of acidity. The tests are very simple and can be made by any farmer right at the spot where the sample is taken. Small outfits costing from 65c to $1.00 each would be a valuable investment.

Soil testing meetings have been held as planned at Farm Bureau Planning Meetings in the following ten communities with a total attendance of 82—Bethel, Buckfield, Canton, Denmark, East Bethel, Hiram North Lovell North Rumford South Paris, and Waterford. Other communities in which soil-test meetings will be held this fall are Andover, Denmark, Norway and North Paris. The meetings are open to everyone interested. Samples of soil should be taken now and saved in order that they can be secured before snow falls. The County Agent, Donald Ridley, South Paris, will be glad to test any samples sent in to him.

National Convention

American Farm Bureau Federation

Massachusetts farm women are preparing to put on their best bibs and tuckers and play hostess to their cousins from out west who will be in Boston for the twelfth annual national convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation, Dec. 5 to 10 An effort will be made to thoroughly initiate the westerners into the spirit and traditions of old New England.

An elaborate program of entertainment is being perfected, which will include banquets and teas, theatre parties, a style show, sight seeing trips to historical places, and to some of New England's typical industries associated with agriculture.

Boston churches will throw open their doors for special welcome of the visitors Sunday morning, Dec. 7. Old North Church from which Paul Revere's signal lanterns were hung and King's Chapel, one of the oldest churches in the city, have issued urgent invitations welcoming the strangers to their services.

A style show staged by the Wool Institute on Monday afternoon, Dec. 8, following the convention session that day, will show the farm women and their men folks what the woolen mills of New England can do in the way of turning the products of their sheep flocks into choice fabrics for wearing apparel.

Between other sessions of the convention, every day trips are to be sandwiched into shoe plants and cotton factories, to give the visitors opportunity to see what becomes of the southern cotton and the hides from the cattle on western ranges.

A bean supper on Saturday evening is to be followed by a theatre party for the women. Tuesday evening will occur the big annual convention banquet and frolic at which a choice entertainment program has been prepared.

Farm Bureau folks in Lexington and Concord are planning on open house for Sunday afternoon, to receive the visitors who will make trips to these historical communities. Salem and Plymouth are bidding for attention and other towns are asking that they be put on the visiting list for pilgrimages. The New England Fruit and Flower Show in Horticultural Hall will also be a center of attraction December 9 to 12.

Cutting the straightest, thriftiest, healthiest young trees in the stand for Christmas trees is like taking the best plants out of the garden and leaving the weeds. To make Christmas trees a legitimate by-product of good forestry, take only those trees which are stunted, crooked or overcrowded in thickets Make the cutting a thinning and weeding operation.

NO. WATERFORD—ALBANY LINE

B. J. Flint is helping E. K. Shedd do some more plowing. He will have several acres plowed. Mr. Shedd has been plowing for Ernest Brown a few days. It is seldom one can plow this time of the year, the 24th of November.

Wm. Dacey has been through here picking up veal calves. They are plentiful and prices low.

Several bear have been shot in Albany and Bethel. Twenty-five dollar bounty in Albany this year. Not many deer have been shot here this fall. Two were seen in Adelbert Churchill's field last week.

Cecil Kimball and wife of Norway were week end guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Kimball.

The whole community was shocked and saddened by the death of one of our most prominent and beloved young men, Carroll Lewis. He has always been a very hard working, honest and upright boy. Everyone who knew him, loved and honored him and all grieve with the dear sisters and brothers who are left to mourn their loss.

Sunday callers at E. K. Shedd's were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brown and daughter, June, and son, Don, and Muriel Sloan. Visitors were O'Neil Mills, wife and two children, Francis and Robert, and Eva Lord, Bryant Pond, Lee Lord and wife, East Stoneham.

Lydia Shedd has been visiting her daughter and family, June Penfold, Don Brown brought her home.

Josephine Sanderson and little daughter, Arline, visited their aunt, June Penfold, one day last week.

Henry Sanderson and wife carried their daughter, Arlene, to a hospital in Portland, Saturday. She is a great sufferer from the effects of an operation for adenoids and tonsils.

Mrs. Frank Pike was a recent visitor at her father's, Walter Lord's.

An auction will be held Wednesday, Dec. 3, at one o'clock, at the boathouse of Charles Sharpe, Water St., Norway. Tools and household goods will be sold. L. J. Brooks will be the auctioneer.

EAST STONEHAM

Guests and Callers at McAlister's—Barker Back On Mail Route—Lucky Hunters.

Two agents for the Home Comfort stoves were through here Wednesday. They stayed two or three nights at Mrs. Eva Barker's.

Harold Mason and Jack McNally of Auburn visited at Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McAllister's last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorin McKeen of Slab City were callers at R. A. McAllister's last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chaplin and Arline, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Curtis took supper at Lucy McAllister's last Sunday night. Mr. and Mrs. John Barker and Vesta were callers in the evening.

Georgia McAllister, who has been caring for Mrs. Bernal McAllister and baby, returned home Sunday the 16th. Mr. and Mrs. Horace Skinner have been stopping there.

June and Leah McAllister were callers at Ona McAllister's, Tuesday.

Charles Stearns and Clyde Corey stayed all night at Raymond McAllister's last Friday night and went hunting, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Walker of Harrison visited at Errol Barker's, Sunday.

John Barker has bought a Ford town sedan.

Carl Barker is back on the mail route after two weeks vacation.

Fernando McAllister is working on the road at Bethel.

It seems queer one can't leave wood piled beside the road without its being taken. Raymond McAllister had some dry wood down on Ledge Hill and some at Lovell turn, which has disappeared.

Mrs. Loren McKeen and Lucy McAllister spent the day, Thursday, with Edith Chaplin.

Callers at Raymond McAllister's, Sunday, were Mr. and Mrs. John Barker and daughter, Vesta. Charlie, Dell, Elsie and George Merrill.

Eva Barker went to Lewiston, Saturday with Mary Pride and her parents of Norway.

Arthur Skinner, Horace Skinner and Bernal McAllister went out huntnig one afternoon last week and brought in a deer.

THANKSGIVING SALAD

Serve a liberal portion of some suitable salad on Thanksgiving Day. It is quite possible that more than one of those who enjoy their Thanksgiving Day dinner with you may have reason to be thankful for the salad.

Many acid-producing foods are served on this day of thanksgiving—chicken, duck, goose, suckling pigs, turkey, bread, pie-crust, cakes, rolls and fish are among them. The alkaline fruits and vegetables served in the salad will go a long way toward balancing these acid-producing delicacies.

Here is a suggestion for a Thanksgiving Day salad: On a bed of crisp leaves of lettuce place six or eight liberal pieces of orange, three of apple cubes, four pineapple cubes and two or three cherries or grapes. Sprinkle liberally with a syrup made by dissolving three teaspoons of sugar in the juice of an orange and half a lemon. Just before bringing to the table, top with a heaping tablespoon of flavored and sweetened whipped cream.

SOUTH WATERFORD

Community Club Activities—Bells Started for Florida—Thanksgiving Service Held.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Nelson returned from their Massachusetts trip on Monday night of last week. They left Malcolm in the Children's Hospital for observation.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Holt spent Friday and Saturday with their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Holt at North Waterford.

Bear Mt. Community Club served a New England boiled dinner in the Grange Hall on Wednesday night. A large crowd in attendance. Mrs. Annie Bradbury was in charge of the supper. Following the supper the picture, "With Byrd at the South Pole" was presented by Rev. W. I. Bull. It was the finest picture the Larger Parish has shown is the opinion of the majority of those attending.

Mrs. Margaret Merrill was in Bethel on Thursday. She motored there for Mr. Merrill's brother, Henry Westleigh, who is visiting the Merrills here at present.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Kingman and Don spent the week end in Westbrook, as guests of her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Adams.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving E. Bell closed their house on Blackguard for the winter on Tuesday, going by motor to Portland for one night, then on to Winchester, Mass., where they are to visit Mr. and Mrs. Frank Russell. After Thanksgiving they will go to St. Cloud, Fla., for the winter. They may motor down, had not really decided when they left home.

We are having the finest weather almost unknown in the month of November.

Mrs. Laura Shaw returned from her Massachusetts visit on Sunday. Mrs. Ernest Brackett of West Medford, Mass., brought her by auto. Mrs. Brackett visited her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Nelson.

Mrs. Pheobe Hapgood closed her home on Monday morning going to spend Thanksgiving with her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. George Keen of Lisbon Falls. She will be gone for the winter.

Mrs. Jennie Haynes spent Friday with Mrs. Nellie U. Stone at the Flat.

Mrs. Ella Meserve of Hallowell spent a night with her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Will Marr, the past week. She came with her son, Roy Meserve.,

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Willard will start for St. Cloud, Fla., by motor with Gray friends, soon after Thanksgiving.

Orrin and Murray Brown of East Otisfield were in town, Monday, doing electrical work.

Friday afternoon, Bear Mt. Community Club met at the home of Mrs. A. A. Monroe, when eleven ladies sewed on aprons for the sale to be held at the next supper, probably on Dec. 3rd, Wednesday, when the next picture comes. Eleven aprons were nearly completed and a jolly time as well.

Sunday evening a Thanksgiving praise service and an open forum. Discussion on "Sweet Land of Liberty" was held in the Grange Hall. Mr. Bull conducted the praise service and Mr. Townsend had charge of discussion. It was a fine meeting.

W. C. Goodwin is building a garage north of his house.

W. K. Hamlin, Harry N. Haynes and W. E. Abbott motored to Portland on Thursday on a business trip.

W. W. Abbott has had a sick week this past one, just now he is some improved.

Sunday Clifford Smith of Bridgton was a caller at W. W. Abbott's. He is interested in Jersey cows.

W. J. Greene and Carl Heath are working in the Wilson house at the Flat.

Several from this vicinity attended the school entertainment and supper at the Wilkins Community House on Saturday evening. It was all reported as fine.

Mrs. Horace Skinner was in Stoneham on Wednesday.

Norway Advertiser, your home paper, $2 per year. Sent for any length of time.

EAST FRYEBURG

Mrs. Sarah Warren is visiting relatives and friends around Boston, making her headquarters at Warren Goddu's in Winchester.

Walter Sanborn is in Portland for medical treatment.

John Manchester lost one of his span of horses, a short time ago.

The Grange held a cleaning and painting party, Saturday at their hall. They made things shine. There were twenty-seven at dinner and a fine dinner it was and judging from appearances, was much appreciated.

Averil Harnden, who has been in Portland for some time, is at home.

Eva Martin got a deer, Friday.

SUMNER

Notes On Hunting—Callers at Bartlett's

Oh boys! last Friday, the 14th, just one day from Friday, the 13th, was a big day for Summer. Fish day, Advertiser day, the dogs were barking, motor vehicle horns tooting. P. V. Redding went to Rumford. Silas Keniston from Locke's Mills was down with a load of hay, Lem Bryant swapped horses, thermometer up to 60. And mid forenoon word came from Flagstaff that our local hunters, who were in the Dead River Region, were breaking camp that morning and soon would be on their way to their happy homes in Sumner. Very quickly a high powered car was sent to East Sumner to have a telegram sent to P. V. Redding in Rumford to hasten to the market and have his weekly order for one hundred pounds of selected hamburg steak cancelled, for the Sumner hunters were on their way home. So upon this news Percy secured the services of a smart boy to assist in finishing putting out orders to his regular customers, that he also might reach home early to congratulate the boys for their best efforts in the wilds of a locality where we had been told that deer were so plenty, also so tame that they would almost come and eat from your hand. Well, to close the story, the boys brought back the total of one small deer. Just previous to these boys starting out for Dead River, the writer, with his sons, Lionel and Jerry, were on their annual outing at East B Hill in Upton for one day and two nights. They were in the woods all that day, as well as about fifteen other hunters, some who were the best in the business, and there were deer in that section, but no one got a deer. They met a party who had just come from a week's stay in the Parmacheene Region and worked hard and never got a shot at a deer, while the same party of four came out from there last season each with a good deer. All signs fail in a drouth and we cannot gamble on what will be the results of a hard week's work in the woods.

Well, the trapping season is with us once more, and we have already received several fur price lists, and the old reliables tell us that if we get about one-half as much for our fur this season as we did last, that we must feel contented and work the trap line all the harder. But some of the wild cat quotations come across and quote mink as high as thirty dollars and many amateurs no doubt, as usual, will fall for those quotations. About two weeks back, the writer was passing an afternoon with Worten Sargent at his comfortable and handsome camp on the shore of Umbagog Lake, which borders the line between Maine and New Hampshire. Mr. Sargent is an intimate friend of mine and, believe me, we had some chat though he was very busy cooking and getting ready for five out of state sportsmen whom he expected the following morning, speaking of cooking—well, he was just taking doughnuts out of the pan as we called in. Yes, we were handed a liberal supply and, well, you may know that was no small amount. Oh, boys! they would melt in your mouth. Well. Worten is well known as one of the best trappers in Maine with a lifelong experience at it, having been almost obliged to learn the business from his father, who followed that occupation in the Umbagog region for more than sixty-five years. Worten told me that he was not going to put out a trap this season, saying that fur was not going to be worth scarcely anything and competition was getting strong, also fur farming was ruining the business of the trapping game and he had a doubt if it ever came back. Nevertheless, the fur farms have poor years and he guessed this was one of them. Mr. Sargent has nine boat kind in Umbagog Lake ranging from a one man canoe up to his 15 horse power motor boat. Well, well, the above stuff should have been in last week's issue, but owing to traffic conditions of the congested streets of the neighborhood on that morning, your correspondent missed the train.

Callers at Emerson Bartlett's Sunday were Alton Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. P. V. Redding and Mrs. Hattie Curtis. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Russell and sons, Emerson, Robert and Georgie, and Cal Russell. Mrs. Emerson Bartlett and daughters, Grace and Gertrude, and son Irving, called on Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Russell Sunday afternoon, also Mrs. Cal Russell.

Linn Farrar and Mr. McLoud have gone to Fayette and from there they will jump back into the deer country for a week's stay.

Day of Thanks in Old City of Leyden

There is a singular and most interesting connection between the Thanksgiving day in far-away Dutch Leyden and that first celebrated by the Pilgrim Fathers.

Four centuries ago a bitter struggle was in progress between all-powerful Spain and her little dominion of the Netherlands—a struggle for liberty, freedom in religion and the right of self-government. The odds were terribly heavy against those tiny low countries, but they had the advantage of an indomitable courage and a remarkable leader, William the Silent, of Orange-Nassau.

The first great turning point in their favor during the long struggle was the siege of Leyden and the city's miraculous delivery in 1574, relates the Youth's Companion. In May of that year suddenly, without the slightest warning, this city, one of the most beautiful in all the Netherlands, found itself surrounded by a huge Spanish army under General Valdez. A siege was begun that was to last two months and reduce the city to the very extremity of starvation, plague and despair.

William of Orange was at that time in Delft, but he sent many messages to the people of Leyden, urging them to hold out bravely for the sake of their country, and counseled their burgomaster, Adrian van der Werf, to take every measure of precaution in economizing food.

William of Orange had conceived a startling scheme for the relief of the city and lost no time in putting it into effect. He commanded all the dykes that kept out the sea to be broken down.

Spaniards in Panic.

This accomplished, the water gradually flowed in over the land and was finally deep enough to float a great fleet of vessels laden with defenders as well as supplies, and commanded by Admiral Boisot. But this was not effected until the town had been reduced to utter despair and had sent messages to William of Orange that it could hold out no longer.

It was on the night of October 2 that a strange thing happened. A great storm had come up from the northwest, blowing in a huge wall of water from the German ocean. The fleet of Admiral Boisot had advanced to the last great barrier held by the Spaniards, Fort Lammen, and was awaiting a last sharp encounter in the morning. The Spaniards, thus hemmed in between the city, the sea and the oncoming fleet, began to think themselves in danger.

Suddenly, during the night, there was a hideous crash—a sound so terrifying that the poor citizens of Leyden thought that now at last the Spaniards had broken in and would butcher them all! The Spanish, on their part, were sure the Leydenese had broken out and were making a last desperate sortie. Flight, they were convinced, was the only hope of safety.

So it came to pass that in the storm and darkness, over the only remaining causeway leading to The Hague, the Spanish army silently took its ignominious departure.

City Really Defenseless.

The curious thing about it all was that this horrible sound which had alarmed both contending parties equally was caused by the falling in of a part of the city wall for the space of nearly a quarter of a mile. Not to this day is it definitely known just why it happened. Probably it had been undermined by the incoming water, but at any rate, had the Spaniards only known it, they could have entered the defenseless city without opposition.

Singularly enough, the only soul or about the city of Leyden who happened to witness the flight of the Spaniards that night was a little boy Gysbert Cornellisen by name. He saw the long procession of lights filtering over the causeway, guessed at the treat of the Spanish, and when it was silent and dark again, made his way to the headquarters of General Valdez. Here he found all deserted but in such a hurry had they been that an iron pot filled with "hodgepodge" (stewing meat and vegetables) was still cooking over the camp fire.

At dawn the next morning Boisot's fleet prepared for the attack, but what was their astonishment to find the empty fort, with one small boy on the breastworks, waving his cap in one hand and brandishing a pot of hodgepodge in the other.

Historic Thanksgiving.

There was rejoicing in the city that day. The famished populace, with the crew of the conquering fleet, repaired at once to the cathedral of St. Peter and there went up such prayers of thankfulness as only a miraculously delivered city could render. In the midst of singing the great battle hymn, voice after voice broke down till the whole congregation wept with the intensity of its emotion.

From that day to this Thanksgiving has been celebrated in Leyden on October 3, and the crowning dish of the feast is the hodge-podge, eaten in memory of the great relief.

But this is not all. More than 300 years later, when the Netherlands were at last a free and peaceful country, there went to Leyden a band of Puritans who had left England to seek a more congenial spot. In that city they lived for a number of years, sharing the hospitality of the Dutch and joining with them in their feasts and holiday customs. Many a time did they eat hodge-podge on October 3.

When at last, in 1620, they left the kindly city and sailed for their destination in the New world, they doubtless took with them the memory of Leyden's thanksgiving. In the succeeding years they found that they had their own causes for thankfulness, and in celebrating this New world festival they deemed it expedient to substitute roast turkey and pumpkin pie in place of the historic hodge-podge of Leyden.

BRIDGTON

Harrison D. Littlefield

The passing of a Civil War veteran, an old Bostonian, from school boy to 1890, well known in official, fraternal, business and G. A. R. circles, died at Bridgton, Wednesday night at 6:30, Nov. 19, aged 89 years, 7 months and 14 days.

Harrison D. Littlefield saw active service with the 1st Mass. Cavalry, the 8th and 11th and 15th Mass. Batteries, Light Artillery; first enlisting as private, and earning four commissions as an officer in the field, during nearly three years service, participating in many battles, the siege of Petersburg and the grand review at Washington, D. C., at the close of the war. He was a charter member and a Past Commander of Boston Post, No. 200, G. A. R., Dept. of Mass. Burial at Bridgton, where he has resided for the past twenty-two years. His widow, Mrs. Harrison D. Littlefield, survives.

State Membership Chairman, Mrs. Sarah C. McCaffrey of Rumford was special guest of the Business and Professional Women at their November social meeting held Monday evening, Nov. 17, in the club rooms. Mrs. McCaffrey gave the club a most interesting and inspirational talk on membership and told something of the plans of the Federation for the year. Mrs. Helen Hamblen was in charge of the program, which had as numbers: singing by the club; readings by Mary Searles Walker; singing by the Glee Club; piano solos, Mrs. Alfred Keen; singing, America, by the club. After the program refreshments of coffee and sandwiches were served. There was a good attendance of club members at this meeting, also a few local visitors and Mrs. John O. McKenzie of Rumford.

Mrs. Grace Richardson has organized a "Boys' and Girls' Choir" to sing at the Methodist church, Sunday morning, and which made its first appearance last Sunday, singing very creditably. The choir, which now has fifteen members, will no doubt increase to at least twenty and as soon as arrangements can be made vestments will be worn.

The Business and Professional Women's Club held a Pajama ball at the Opera House, Monday evening, Nov. 24. There were dances pleasing to everybody. Music by a local orchestra and a good time for all. Miss Gladys Chadbourne and Miss Frances Davis were chairmen of the committees in charge.

Miss Eva Brett was one of the prize winners at the 4-H Club county meeting in Portland, Nov. 8th.

Mrs. Julia Lord Rowe has recently purchased a piano from Mrs. Dana Stuart.

EAST STONEHAM

The Daughters of Union Veterans held their annual inspection Wednesday evening. Nearly all members were present; Mrs. Bertha Noyes, department president, inspected. She was accompanied by Mrs. Jacobs of Norway Tent. This isn't the first time Mrs. Noyes has inspected and we all enjoy having her with us. Lunch consisting of coffee and sandwiches, and all kinds of cake, was served. Previous to inspection, the council members and secretary met at Mrs. C. D. Bickford's to audit books. Lunch was served and a pleasant afternoon enjoyed. The next meeting will be the 10th of December.

Mrs. Eva Barker has a new Chevrolet car.

The last Circle was entertained by Mrs. Maude McAlister and Mrs. Anna McAlister. There will be another in two weeks, entertained by Mrs. Hazel Files and Mrs. Nettie McAlister.

Richard Files and Christine Nelson were at home from High School over the week end.

Mrs. Hazel Files has returned home from South Paris, where she has been serving on the jury.

WEST STONEHAM

Mrs. Eva Barker and children and Miss Ruth Johnson of East Stoneham spent Saturday, Nov. 15, with Mrs. Barker's grandmother, Mrs. I. A. Andrews.

Henry Rolfe, Omar Moxcey and helpers killed and dressed fifty roosters to be raffled off at Yarmouth, Monday night.

Mrs. Mabel McKay has been sick with a cold, but is so to be out once more.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bean spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Bert Heath.

Henry Rolfe and Omar Moxcey were in North Norway, recently, and purchased some ducks of Fred Dunn.

Elmer Haggett of South Paris spent Sunday with relatives in town.

Leon Bean has finished work in Vermont.

Ellis Bean, Mr. and Mrs. George Bean and son, Junior, called on their brother, Lawrence Bean, and family, also Mrs. Agnes Fox, Sunday.

Gerald Gammon was a recent caller in town.

William McKay drove truck for Holman Tucker, recently.

SOUTH ALBANY

Carl and Earl Rickett of Portland, with a party of friends, spent the week end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Rickett of this place. They returned to Portland, Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cox of East Waterford were at her father's, Walter Cantwell's, Sunday.

Walter Cantwell and family visited his sister, Mrs. W. A. Yeaton, at Welchville, Sunday, Nov. 16.

The Clarke School is enjoying a week's vacation.

SHEAF OF THANKS

Every day we take our joys and blessings more or less unthankingly. On Thanksgiving day we harvest our crop and bundle them up in one big beautiful sheaf, bound together with a cord of prayer; there are thanks for peace and safety; for life and health and home; for things that are, and things that are not, for things material and things spiritual; all are in the great lovely sheaf that is offered to the harvest of the Supreme Giver on Thanksgiving day.

BOLSTERS MILLS

Miss Gay to Have Vacation—Cooks to Enjoy Thanksgiving at Old Home—School Had Box Supper.

Miss Alice Gay is to have a vacation from E. L. Gay's store for two weeks and visit relatives in South Paris and Casco. Mrs. Mabel Jillson will work in the store while she is away.

The Cooks are to have a family Thanksgiving at the old home, Charles Cook and son, Robinson and family, and daughter, Lydia Cornell, and family.

Stephen Winslow has his new house about ready to move into.

Mrs. John Hancock has marketed a large lot of nice turkeys, also Dr. Wight and Mrs. Fred Weston.

Norman Mills and family will go to Garland to spend Thanksgiving with her parents.

Lizzie Edwards is working for Alice Wilbur, dressmaking.

A. W. Weston has bought a nice lot of sheep.

Roy Dresser is sick.

The Swampville school had a box supper and entertainment at the Grange Hall last Friday night.

FRESH PEACHES IN WINTER

Forecast of a new line of food products that will add to the healthfulness and appetite appeal of the American menu is contained in the announcement that for the first time in history the quick-freezing process has been successfully applied to fresh fruits for home and individual consumption. This year it will be possible to buy, right through the winter, fresh, tree-ripe Georgia peaches which were frozen last summer in a way that retains all their original freshness and flavor. They'll be as fresh when they come to you as when they were picked from the trees.

Next year and the years following should see a steady extension of the process to include other fruits. There is ample promise that within a comparatively short time the new partnership between refrigerating science and the fruit grower will have gone a long way toward revolutionizing our winter diet by making the all-important, fresh, vitamin-bearing fruits available for our tables all the year round at moderate cost. The peaches, representing the first step in this revolution, are frozen in a temperature of 35 degrees below zero. The process is much the same as that which has been applied to fresh meats, but it is a more delicate one, since fruits are less able than meats to withstand the breaking down of their cells.

When the peaches are purchased for consumption in the home, they are handled in the same way as ice cream bought in cartons for the home table. They should be delivered, or brought home, just before meal time and placed immediately in the refrigerator. By the time you are ready for dessert, the peaches will be ready, too.

HEALTH IS GOOD BUSINESS

Men and women live longer now than did those of half a century ago. The life span has been increased by 17 years. The gain is the result of knowledge.

Sickness and death are tragedies in the experience of individuals, but from the point of view of the interests of the community, they are just plain bad business. The service of every able-bodied man to society as a whole has a certain definite cash value. If he lives and keeps well he ought to be counted upon to contribute to the wealth of the community.

This is one justification for spending money collected from the public to protect public health. It is community insurance. Millions are wasted every year because persons are laid up by sickness.

It is the business of organized society to protect itself against those attacks of disease which grow out of bad living conditions. Public money is well and justifiably spent in preventing the accumulation of filth, in providing a safe water supply, in enforcing quarantine regulations, in spreading health information, in providing clinics for the treatment of those unable to secure medical services at their private expense.

KILLS RATS NOTHING ELSE
K-R-O (Kills Rats Only) killed 238 rats in 12 hours on a Kansas farm. It is the original product made by a special process of squill, an ingredient recommended by U. S. Government as sure death to rats and mice, but harmless to dogs, cats, poultry or even baby chicks. You can depend on this. K-R-O in a few years has become America's leading rat and mouse killer. BIGGER AND BETTER

THE NEW CHEVROLET SIX HAS MANY IMPROVEMENTS

The introduction of the new Chevrolet Six marks the most impressive forward step in Chevrolet's twenty-year record of constant progress and improvement. For this Bigger and Better Six offers new beauty, new luxury, new completeness and new quality—yet it sells at lower prices!

In every curve and sweep of Chevrolet's modern lines—in every detail of its new Fisher bodies, you will see the fine hand of the master designer and the skillful craftsman. And the more closely you inspect it, the more deeply impressed you will be.

The improvements in the new Chevrolet Six begin at the smart new chrome-plated headlamps and extend throughout the entire car. The radiator is deeper. The lines are longer and lower, giving an air of exceptional fleetness and grace. And the interiors of the new Fisher bodies provide a new degree of comfort and luxury; greater roominess; fine quality mohair or broadcloth upholstery; more pleasing interior fittings; and a new, completely equipped instrument panel.

The chassis of the new Chevrolet Six has also been refined and advanced in a number of different ways. The frame is heavier, deeper and stronger than before. There is a smoother operating, long lived clutch; a sturdier front axle; an entirely new steering mechanism; an easier shifting transmission. In fact, every vital feature of the new car has been made better to provide more thorough satisfaction for the owner.

And along with these improvements, Chevrolet offers the smooth performance of a 50-horsepower, six-cylinder motor—four long semi-elliptic springs—four hydraulic shock absorbers—a safety gasoline tank at the rear of the car—and an economy of operation not surpassed by any automobile.

» » AT NEW LOW PRICES « «

Fine as it is, the new Chevrolet Six now sells at lower prices—making the economy and satisfaction of Chevrolet ownership even more outstanding. We urge you to come in and see the Bigger and Better Chevrolet. Its modern design reflects the spirit of the times—and it represents a value which will command the interest of every buyer in the low-price field.

Poems by Winnie Gray Curtis of North Bridgton, Maine

TO A PINE TREE

Stately creature in your robe of green,
You stir my soul whenever you are seen.
Your scent brings quiet to my tired mind,
Your peaceful music my heart will ever bind.
Oh Pine Tree—
I can never tell you, what dear thoughts you bring.
Your slender spills, like beckoning fingers wave.
Dear God, I give thee thanks, for this pine tree you gave.

DEAR LITTLE HOUSE WHERE NOBODY LIVES

Dear little house where nobody lives,
You cause me laughter, you cause me tears
As I sit down on your steps to rest.
Visions I weave of your loneliness.
I wonder as I sit and dream,
How many births your chambers have seen,
Now you look empty, sad and alone,
Has it been many years since you were called home?
Your hearth is cold, no fires glow,
In winter your porch is piled high with snow.
The wind your shutters shake and creak,
No more your lawn looks trim and neat,
Unkempt your hedges, the flowers are gone,
Gone is the laughter and lilt of song.
I wonder who have tread your halls,
What children played here with toys and dolls.
Then I think of the God, who takes and gives
As I go from the house where nobody lives.

MOTHER LOVE

What is so sweet as a mother's love—
What is so lasting and true,
No matter how many friends you may have,
A mother, the best one to you.
Perhaps in life's journey you may go astray,
Perhaps you may sometimes do wrong,
The world will its face turn away,
But mother's love proves just as strong.
Through infancy, childhood, and youth,
She has loved, through manhood and womanhood, too,
Tho all others fail, just as long as there's life,
A mother's a mother to you.

LIFE'S LESSON

A Butterfly spread his wings in glee, and flew away toward the deep blue seas,
And I though how wonderful life can be.
A little Bird called to his mate, so I lingered
on the garden gate,
And I though how lonely life can be.
A Bumble-Bee flitting from flower to flower gathered the honey for more than an hour,
And I thought how busy life can be.
A tiny face in my pansy bed was nodding its little velvet head,
And I thought, how beautiful life can be.
A Baby coo's in its mother's arms, having no thought of life's cares or harms,
And I thought how innocent life can be.
A Maid with her lover my eyes espied, as closely they strolled by each other's side,
And I thought how wonderful life can be.
A white haired man sat close beside, the one who was once his girlish bride,
And I thought how peaceful life can be.

KEZAR FALLS

Post Organizing Drum Corps—Attended Football Game—Kiwanis Notes.

Carroll West Post is organizing a drum corp, their efforts being sponsored by Kezar Falls Kiwanis Club. As soon as the instruments are secured, a teacher from Portland will give them lessons.

John W. Garner of Lowell Technical Institute was the week end guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Garner, recently.

The N. E. B. D. Club went to the New Lincoln, Cornish, Wednesday, the 12th, for their annual chicken dinner.

Among those attending the football game at North Hampton, Saturday afternoon, Nov. 15, were Edgar Giles, who has a boy there, W. M. Chellis, Arthur A. Callaghan and Sidney Bachelder.

Mrs. Evelyn Watkins of Kennebunk was the week end guest of her sister, Miss Ina Emery, recently.

On Monday evening, Nov. 17th, Kezar Falls Kiwanis Club found themselves in the vestry of the Baptist church, Limerick. They had been there before and were well pleased with the place and their reception. For some reason the meeting was called ladies night, but besides gracing the company with their presence, the pleasure of entertainment devolved upon Judge Cleaves, who spoke as one with authority, "The Cause of the Present Business Depression", being his subject, which held the interest of the ladies as well as that of the rest of the company. There was certainly no depression in the atmosphere around the eminent judge, who knew to a certainty whereof he spoke. Did anyone mention roast chicken? It was done to a turn. Neither were the singers disappointing for they could both sing and eat. The evening was instructive and enjoyable and proved that life was well worth living.

LYNCHVILLE

Otis Cobb was at home over the week end from his work in Norway.

Mrs. Fred McKeen and three children and Minnie McKeen went to Norway, Saturday, shopping.

Callers at Perley Adams', Nov. 16, were Mr. and Mrs. Bert Emery and two children of Fryeburg, Mr. and Mrs. John Adams and Mrs. Albert Adams and two children of West Stoneham and Fred McKeen.

Mrs. Perley Adams and Mrs. Otis Cobb called on Mrs. James Guptill, Tuesday afternoon.

Minnie McKeen and Mrs. Fred McKeen called on Mrs. Perley Adams, Friday. They also called on Mrs. Otis Cobb the same day.

Mrs. John Barker and Mrs. Carl Barker and children of Stoneham called on Mrs. Otis Cobb, Saturday afternoon.

Ruth Johnson will spend Thanksgiving at Fred McKeen's.

FOR BLESSINGS

To give thanks on Thanksgiving day, to pause from normal activities, to recognize the providential blessings bestowed upon the American people is a duty. The custom has no law of compulsion. It has become a traditional practice. It is instituted by Presidential proclamation, which is observed as though it were of statutory force. While the day has become a holiday, a festivity in some degree, it remains primarily an occasion of reverential recognition of the great dispensation which brings to America the richness of spiritual as well as material advance.

FIRST THANKSGIVING YEAR PRECEDED BY A DROUTH

Thanksgiving in the season first celebrated by the Pilgrim forefathers and the present year have much in common because a great drouth cut the crops short, says Therese E. Wood, Extension Foods Specialist, University of Maine, who will broadcast a talk over Maine radio stations on Thanksgiving Day.

Referring to the diary of William Bradford, governor of the Plymouth colony, Miss Wood finds the following:

"Notwithstanding all their great pain and industry and the great hope of a large crop the Lord seemed to blast and take away the same and to threaten farther and more sore famine unto them by a great drouth which continued from the third week in May, till about the middle of July, without any rain and with great heat (for the most part), insomuch as the corn began to wither away, though it was set with fishe, the moisture whereof helped it much. Yet at length it began to languish sore and some of the drier grounds were parched like withered hay, part whereof was never recovered. Upon which they set apart a solemn day of humiliation, to seek the Lord by humble and fervent prayer, in this great distress."

It would seem, says Miss Wood, that the men believed in "letting the women do the work" because the record discloses that there were only four women in the colony, who, with the help of one servant and a few young girls, prepared the food for three days for 120 men, three-fourths of whom were Indians.

This talk will be given on Thanksgiving day over WCSH, Portland, at 12:30 noon; WLBZ, Bangor, at 12:45 noon; and WABI, Bangor, at 7:15 p. m.

Mothers... Watch Children's COLDS

COMMON head colds often "settle" in throat and chest where they may become dangerous. Don't take a chance—at the first sniffle rub on Children's Musterole once every hour for five hours.

Children's Musterole is just good old Musterole, you have known so long, in milder form.

This famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other ingredients brings relief naturally. Musterole gets action because it is a scientific "counter-irritant"—not just a salve—it penetrates and stimulates blood circulation, helps to draw out infection and pain.

Keep full strength Musterole on hand, for adults and the milder—Children's Musterole for little tots. All druggists.

Celebrated Anniversary—Miss Richards Resumed Work—Johnson Gone to Massachusetts.

On Saturday evening, the supper and entertainment given by the school was held at the Wilkins Community House. This gathering was held on the anniversary of the dedication of this building one year ago, and it was also the anniversary of the birthday of Miss Susan Hamlin Wilkins, whose generous bequest has made it possible for the village to have this beautiful building. Rev. A. C. Townsend gave a short talk in which he paid tribute to the memory of this splendid woman. The children gave a fine entertainment of songs, piano solos and duets, recitations and three short plays, which were very entertaining. The money collected at this entertainment will be used to pay for a set of reference books purchased by the school. The community is always interested in the schools, and there were generous donations of food and money and some people who were unable to attend, sent contributions of money to help swell the fund, and a good sum was realized.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Warren of Kennebunk have been visiting Mr. Warren's sisters, Mrs. Jane Stone and Mrs. Nancy Jewett.

Mrs. Ben Collins is enjoying a visit from her father and brother. They attended the entertainment on Saturday evening.

Miss Gertrude Richards has resumed her work for Miss Baird. During the absence of Miss Richards, Miss Baird has been boarding at Stone Home.

Several of our young people are having an enforced vacation, as Bridgton Academy is closed for two weeks, on account of measles in the school.

F. A. Morgan is spending a few days at his camp in Greenwood.

Fred Johnson went to Ipswich, Mass., on Sunday, and will spend Thanksgiving with his brother, Winfield Johnson. Fred Greenholge of Brooklyn, who has been a guest of Mr. Johnson for five weeks, has returned home.

MRS. CLARA WATERMAN

Mrs. Clara (Garland) Waterman, wife of Charles E. Waterman, died at her home on Oak Street, Mechanic Falls, Nov. 20.

She was born in Paris, the daughter of John L. and Clara (Rawson) Garland.

Mrs. Waterman was educated in the public schools of her native town and at Paris Hill Academy. She taught school for a time but later became a compositor in the office of the "Oxford Democrat."

She was fond of music and at one time sang in the choir of the Baptist Church at Paris Hill. After going to Mechanic Falls, when her husband became editor of the "Mechanic Falls Ledger", she was a member of the Colfax Rebekah Lodge and of the Mechanic Falls Study Club.

She is survived by her husband and a niece, Mrs. Minnie G. Sanders of Boston.

SPIRITUALIST GATHERINGS

Dr. Clement brought Dr. Arthur Gebhard from Boston, who gave a lecture on how to take care of the body. Dr. Gebhard will start a class of foot specialists and give instruction in the work. Mrs Eva F. Dudley of this town is in charge of securing students for the work.

Circles held every Wednesday evening at Mrs. Pierson's, Hicks Crossing, are largely attended and the development class following the circles is well attended. Dr. and Mrs. Charles Clement and O. S. Monphiria are leaders in the meetings.

The offering taken after the Thanksgiving concert, Sunday evening, amounted to $50.18. This sum will be used to fill baskets with Thanksgiving cheer for unfortunate families and individuals in South Paris.

"Roll Call Night" Thursday night, Dec. 4th, at Mt. Mica Lodge, No. 17, I .O. O. F. All Odd Fellows in South Paris, whether members of this lodge or not, are urged by the officers to be present. Supper at 6:30, followed by a good entertainment.

Miss Catherine Chapman, R. N., is home from Boston to spend Thanksgiving with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald P. Chapman.

Mr. and Mrs. Lenwood Durepo of Montpelier, Vt., were here over Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Davis.

The Ethel May Shorey Co. closed their engagement on the circuit, Monday evening, playing "The Criminal" to a large house. All specialties were loudly applauded and encores added to the program. Fred Campbell was funny as ever in his review of the weekly newspaper. The jazz orchestra lived up to the clip set at the first performance. An announcement was to the effect that the company will return for a run on this circuit next spring.

Will Pratt, superintendent of Opportunity Farm in New Gloucester, called on relatives in town, Monday.

The annual fair by the ladies of the Universalist church will be held Dec. 16. There will be the usual sale of aprons, fancy work and candy. After the chicken pie supper a playlet entitled "The Country Store" will be sponsored by the young ladies' class of the Sunday school.

James M. Millett, who is in the St. Barnabas Hospital in Portland, is gaining, after undergoing a serious operation.

Cornelius Sally of New York, who is in charge of the paint room at the Mason Mfg. Co., moved his family here, Sunday into Miss Julia P. Morton's house on Park street.

Mrs. Leslie L. Mason entertained for breakfast, Sunday morning, Nov. 23, at 9 o'clock in honor of Rev. and Mrs. Rensel Colby. The guests were Dr. and Mrs. Delbert Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Donald K. Mason, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph R. Butts, Mr. and Mrs. A. Franklin Goldsmith, Andrew J. Eastman, and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Pendexter, Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Brown and Stuart Goodwin of Norway and Roy Cole. After breakfast the guests attended church. Mr. Colby preached a Thanksgiving sermon, using the subject "Count Your Blessings".

Thanksgiving Concert

Fine Program and Large Attendance Sunday Evening

An orchestra of twelve pieces furnished a program for the annual union Thanksgiving concert in the Congregational church, Sunday evening. There were six ensemble classical numbers; a trumpet solo, "Simple Aveu" by Clarence Huff; trombone solo, Shubert's "Serenade", by James Mason; violin solo, 'Tone Poem" by Miss Marion Haskell and a cello solo by Miss Josephine Rand. The string ensemble, seven pieces, played 'Ave Verum Corpus" by Mozart.

Mrs. Esther Tower Anderson read Kelly's pathetic short story, "A Christmas Present for a Lady". The scene was a Christmas tree celebration in the East side, New York City, and a little Jewish boy, Morris, the head liner.

Three pastors had a part; the invocation was by Rev. C. L. Kinney and benediction by Rev. E. B. Tetley and announcements by Rev. R. H. Colby. The offering amounted to $50.18.

The musicians from South Paris and Norway gave their services and were:

First Violins—Miss Marion Haskell, director; Mrs. Grace Robinson, Miss Clara Shepard.
Second Violin—Miss Dorothy Dean.
Viola—Walter Stearns.
Cello—Miss Josephine Rand.
Bass—Clarence DeCosta.
First Trumpet—Clarence Huff.
Second Trumpet—Herman Fisher.
First Clarinet—Delmore Robinson.
Trombone—James Mason.
Organist—Mrs. Ida Neal.

The Opportunity Class of the Congregational Sunday school will entertain the gentlemen at the church vestry, Monday, Dec. 1. There will be an entertainment and old time sing during the evening.

The special go-to-church Sunday known as "Loyalty Sunday" at the Congregational church is Nov. 30. "Loyalty that Lasts" is the theme for the sermon. A religious play or pageant will be presented in the evening under the name "A Legend of the Grail".

Hamlin Lodge, K. of P., observed "Old Home Night", Friday evening with a large gathering of members and several visitors. After a supper of oyster stew and pastry, Raymond Gates acted as toastmaster and presided during a program. The high school orchestra played and the address of welcome was by H. E. Judge. Remarks were made by Past Grand Chancelor John E. Everett, Rev. R. H. Colby and other members of Hamlin Lodge. A number of guests from Craigie Lodge at Oxford spoke briefly. Program features were song by Gordon Thayer and Yvonne Valley; a skit by Lloyd Gates and William Kinney and selections by a male quartet, Messrs, Bolster, Churchill, Colby and Titus.

Miss Rena E. Tribou is with friends in Bucksport for a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Whitman will attend a family gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe D Slattery, King Neighborhood.

Oxford Park

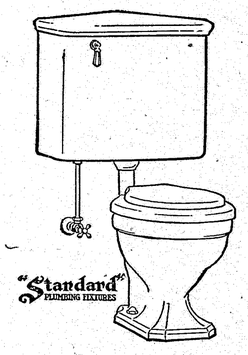
Health Protection



Protect your health by abolishing the health-damaging, outdoor toilet that attracts flies, harbors germs—spreads odors. In winter, the outdoor toilet means discomfort and exposure to cold.
Enjoy greater health protection and comfort. Install a modern, indoor water closet. It will cost far less than to regain lost health.
Prices reasonable for immediate installation. Let us give you an estimate.

High School

Party at Club House—Annual Junior Class Party—Basket Ball Dates.

The Commercial Club members and their invited guests had a party at the Heywood Club House, Friday, Nov. 21. Dancing and games were enjoyed during the evening. Attractive programs, decorated with turkeys were made by Alice LaFrance, Mildred Gallant, Beatrice Gallant and Lila Emerson. Music was furnished by Miss Winslow, Mildred Gallant and Esther Ray, piano; Hazel Holman, clarinet, Edwin Barker and Winfred Conary, saxaphones. Sandwiches, cocoa, cookies and cake were served at intermission. Mrs. Harry Jordan and Mrs. W. Y. Young kindly furnished the cocoa.

A Commercial Club meeting was held Wednesday morning. Mrs. Esther Anderson gave a very interesting program of humorous songs and sketches. The members of the club are writing essays and these are to be tried out at the next meeting. The one voted the best will get a surprise.

Rev. C. B. Rheiner entertained the students of Norway high school, Friday, Nov. 21, with a very illustrative talk on "Magic—Art or Science". Through his talk, he gave demonstrations of the different kinds of magic.

The Junior class will hold a Thanksgiving class party in the gym, Thursday, Dec. 11. All Freshmen, Sophomores and Seniors are cordially invited. Bob Maxfield, Ismay Aldrich and George Smith are to have charge.

The football men who earned their letters had their pictures taken last Monday. Orders are being taken for these pictures by Red Smith, manager of the football team.

Basket ball practice for both girls and boys started this week. The girls' interclass games will start next week. The following is the schedule subject to change):

Dec. 8 at 3:30 .....
Dec. 9 at 7:00 .....
Dec. 10 at 3:30 .....
Dec. 15 at 3:30 .....
Dec. 16 at 7:00 .....
Dec. 17 at 3:30 .....

The following letter men on the boys basket ball team reported: Roland Bisconeau, Myron Loveley, Lawrence Smith, Sam Favor, Robert Goodwin. Other veterans are: Paul Brown, Bob Mc'rond, Tom Tervo, Leon Stevens and Nat Jackson.

Pleasureland In Action

Indoor Golf Course Opened—Making Hit

The new Pleasureland Golf Course opened this week in the former armory building, is making a decided hit with golfers and with many not accustomed to tapping the white pill.

The fifteen-hole course was built and installed by J. Harold Neal of South Paris. There are rolling fairways, sand traps, water holes and other pitfalls to upset a low score. A carpet of linen inch felt covers the course to represent well cropped turf. Each of the fifteen fairways is 42 inches wide and each green is 72 inches, giving plenty of room for arm action in putting.

Pains have been made to add pleasing effects about two rooms used for the course. The general color scheme of black and orange with the gray frost white birch saplings used in rustic work at conspicuous places. Window curtains carry out the tri-color scheme.

Electric lights provide brilliant illumination and radio music stimulates while playing, regular casino style. Wraps are checked free and beginners are taught the game. Steam heat provides summer warmth every week day from 10 a. m. to 12 midnight, which are the hours the course is open

Spectators are welcome, but a place for general loafing is not the idea. A neat sign near the manager's desk is a gentle hint, as follows: "If you have nothing to do, please don't do it here."

Manager Herbert A. Butler is enthusiastic over the prospects of giving a public genteel sport on the best course in Oxford County.

Similar sets to be installed by J. Harold Neal will soon appear in Bath, Brockton, Worcester, Mass., with other contracts pending.

OVER NIGHT IN WOODS

That is what happened to Hosea McKay of Norway. Thanksgiving night. He was deer hunting in East Stoneham, wounding one, he followed it, darkness came and instead of trying to find his way out, he made a lean-to and a fire and waited until morning light appeared. The night was cold, but he did not suffer.

Several carloads of friends from Norway and other places started a search for him the next morning. He was easily found and was much less concerned over "a night in the woods" than the searching party. "He was not lost, he knew where he was, but wasn't going to buck his neck trying to get out in the dark, that's the way he tells it.

He failed to get the deer. Webb Adams of Stoneham jumped it the next morning, but did not stop it.

Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Bartlett and daughters, Leah and Wilma, spent a few days in Naples, visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Wiltsie were Thanksgiving guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wilson, at The Eastland Hotel, Portland.

Giles George is so much improved as to be able to go out on the street. It has been nine weeks since he was operated on for appendicitis. He was eighteen days in the hospital and since his return, was within a few days, been confined to the house.

The persistent rumor that Mrs. Florence Bradbury has sold the lot between her residence and the Norway Food Shoppe building is denied by one most directly concerned. According to the stories, Norway is to have a large department store of the five and ten variety on the lot, and sponsored by a well known syndicate. As a matter of fact, that parcel has been sold by rumor many times in the past ten years, and this latest story differs only in the size and kind of mythical building to be erected there.
